

Workshare Secure

Protecting your data in a digital era

Data loss prevention – as simple as that

Operating to ISO27001 security standards

Files are encrypted at rest and in transit

Send large or sensitive files as secure links

Prevent data loss and embarrassing mistakes. Use a solution that automatically protects the contents of your files – and your reputation along with it.

Operating in a regulated market, you work on high stakes documents every day. These documents contain critical and confidential information that can't be allowed to get into the wrong hands. But, you want to focus on clients and progressing matters, not on managing security and compliance – so leave that to us.

Data loss prevention extends from the information you can see (the text on a page) to the metadata you can't (the hidden properties in a file). Workshare secures all of it, and you don't have lift a finger.

We can apply your firm's security policies to email, mobile or web sharing, and protect engines will crawl the contents of files for data deemed sensitive and automatically remove it.

Plus, if a file passes through different hands to be edited or reviewed, any metadata collected along the way in the form of track changes, hidden cells or comments can be identified and flagged in the application.

It's a stress-free way to protect the data you need to share every day.

You should use Workshare if you want...

A stress-free approach to DLP – You aren't likely to be thinking about data risks when you need to share a file, so let the solution do the thinking for you and deliver your files safely.

Automation to do the hard work – Company-wide policies can be customized and applied, then contextual awareness automatically assesses the risk associated with a files and removes data identified as sensitive.

Stay at the top of your game

You fill each document with your time and knowledge – that's your expertise, not data loss prevention.

Advise clients, deliver high stakes documents and stay at the top of your game. Leave data loss prevention to us, we love it.

Complete automation

Integrated with Outlook or a Document Management System (DMS), your files can be automatically scanned for sensitive content and cleaned of metadata before they're shared. Your workflow is uninterrupted and you maintain compliance with company security policy without breaking sweat.

Flexibility and control

Regardless of when, where and how you share a file, you can protect the data in your files. Going beyond the desktop and out to mobile, the same policies can secure your files shared from a smartphone or tablet. However you share, we have you covered.

360 degree cover

Scan and clean documents before they're shared via email or your DMS. Send large or sensitive files without email size limits restricting you by using secure file transfer. This enables you to convert 'cleaned' files into a secure link, sending that via email instead. Plus, you can keep an audit trail of activity associated with each document you exchange.
